It is brought to the notice of the Court by learned Mediator that the mediation proceedings could not proceed on account of time taken by the parties.

Learned counsel appearing for the parties, present in the Court, submit that they will cooperate with the Mediator and a final decision will be taken within a period of two months.

Needless to say that mediation process to resolve the dispute does not contemplate undue delay as the mediation is an efficient, expeditious dispute resolution mode.

Accordingly, the parties who are willing to settle the dispute by way of mediation, are required to complete the mediation proceedings as early as possible, as stated within a period of two months.
