Having heard learned counsel for the parties, we are only inclined to direct that the High Court shall proceed with the proceedings qua persons and the officials who are facing contempt. That apart while dealing with the aforesaid contempt proceedings, the High Court shall be at liberty to deal with the directions contained in the principal order. Needless to say that all the contentions raised by the contemnors in the High Court shall be considered in accordance with the law. The personal presence of the contemnors shall not be insisted upon. The special leave petition stands disposed of accordingly.
